Trainings & Seminars

Three Tier Consulting presents many regional institutes with nationally-known experts on autism. We also host forums for practitioners and researchers to share their perspectives. Small group seminars and clinics provide opportunities for hands-on experiences in techniques shown to be effective for individuals with autistic spectrum disorders. We also provide personalized training for districts, agencies and families. For a list of up-coming trainings and seminars, visit www.3-tier.org

Clinics & Consulting

Are you developing new services for individuals with autism? Three Tier Consulting help you develop your service model, train your staff, and troubleshoot your programs. Proficiency in ABA intensive teaching methods, visually structured learning environments, and social skills development can greatly improve outcomes for students with developmental disorders. We also provide on-line consulting for educators who need assist for specific students.

Students with autism respond positively to highly structured and predictable instruction. Behaviorally-based (ABA) teaching focused on communication, independence, and "learning to learn" helps students gain access to more inclusive educational settings.

Communication is a "pivotal" skill for learning. Teaching individuals with autism to communicate (verbally or through pictures and sign) is the central focus of effective programs for individuals with autism. Verbal Behavior methods and Picture Systems are effective in increasing communication.

Inclusion in school and life requires social interaction. In the long run, the ability to play, make friends, and negotiate social environments is one of the greatest challenges for individuals with autistic spectrum disorders. Strategies such as social scripting, video modeling, role playing and integrated play groups are effective methods in teaching these skills.

ALL CHILDREN DESERVE A SPECIAL EDUCATION.

We can assist your school in creating a positive learning environment and improving student outcomes
